Justice Through Bail Reform

We are honored to host the Kentucky Council of Churches and the Kentucky Center for Economic Policy's forum on bail reform. Join us for an important presentation and discussion.

Too many people in our community are being locked up before they are even found guilty of an offense, with bail set so high they can't afford to get out of jail. The costs of pretrial incarceration are financial, physical, mental and emotional, and they take a toll on people, families and communities. Join us as we hear testimonials from people who have experienced our unjust bail system and people working to change it. Our faith and the facts point us in the same direction: It's time for equal justice for all Kentuckians through bail reform.
